INDICTMENT

COUNT ONE

THE GRAND JURY CHARGES THAT:

OxyContin and a generic substitute, that is, Roxicodone, also contain oxycodone, a Schedule II controlled substance. Pills containing oxycodone are dispensed and distributed by pharmacies normally pursuant to lawful prescriptions written by physicians in the usual course of professional practice and for legitimate medical reasons. Pills containing oxycodone can also be an addictive painkiller and are abused. Pills containing oxycodone are frequently sold by illegal distributors at prices greater than that for which the pills were paid for at a pharmacy.

acts, among others, were committed in Philadelphia, in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania:
